

Top Image: Tag 'What exactly is a human?', city centre, Athens

Bottom Image: 'Shadow Play' at Amygdaleza detention centre

Containers' Terminology: Container. A reusable steel rectangular box for carrying cargo that first came into common use about 50 years ago. The sizes of containers are standardized so that they can easily be moved between specially adapted container ships, trains and trucks.

Box. Another (less formal) name for a shipping container. This is how they are often referred to in the industry. © Myrto Tsilimpounidi and Zoe Manta 2015.

Top Image: 'Un-contained', immigrants left in the city centre
 Bottom Image: 'Broken Pillars of Democracy', City centre, Athens
 Containers' Terminology: IICL Repair Criteria. Detailed repair criteria issues by the IICL which defines clearly which repairs should be performed on fleet containers. Damage protection plan (DPP) offered by containers lessors who are not 'technically' allowed to offer insurance which is a regulated market. © Myrto Tsilimpounidi and Zoe Manta 2015.

Top Image: 'Birdcage', city centre, Athens
 Bottom Image: 'Queuing', Aegean Island
 Containers' Terminology: Detention. Fees charged when containers are held outside the terminal longer than the agreed free time. All units will continue to be charged daily while in the custody of the consignee until returned to the shipping line. © Myrto Tsilimpounidi and Zoe Manta 2015.

Top Image: 'Approaching', Piraeus Port

Bottom Image: 'No entry', Crossing Aegean sea to Piraeus

Containers' Terminology: Blind Shipment. When the shipper and receiver are not aware of one another, the freight shipment is called blind shipment. In such cases, the bill of lading lists the party that paid for the shipment as the shipper or receiver of the freight shipment.

© Myrto Tsilimpounidi and Zoe Manta 2015.

Top Image: 'Night Shift', Piraeus Port

Bottom Image: 'Retractable Legs', Aegean sea

Containers' Terminology: Swap Body. Used for European road and rail transport and not seaworthy. Constructed differently to containers and with metric dimensions, these are not stackable and some are fitted with retractable legs. © Myrto Tsilimpounidi and Zoe Manta 2015.

Top Image: 'Lounge Room: Uncontained', Victoria Square
Bottom Image: 'Hotel New Dream' owned by Golden Dawn members
Containers' Terminology: Maiden Voyage. The very first journey a ship makes after being delivered from the ship-yard. © Myrto Tsilimpounidi and Zoe Manta 2015.

Top Image: 'Staring', Victoria Square
Bottom Image: 'Gazing', near Piraeus Port
Containers' Terminology: Broker. A person who makes freight shipping arrangements on behalf of a person or company. The broker has experience in the industry and negotiates the best possible shipping rates on behalf of the client. © Myrto Tsilimpounidi and Zoe Manta 2015.

Top Image: 'Outside', Piraeus Port
Bottom Image: 'Inside', Victoria Square
Containers' Terminology: Intermodalism. A system whereby standard-sized cargo containers can be moved seamlessly between different 'modes' of transport, typically specially adapted ships known as container ships, barges, trucks and trains. Because the cargo does not need to be unloaded from the container every time it is moved from one mode to the other it is a very efficient and fast system of transportation. © Myrto Tsilimpounidi and Zoe Manta 2015.

Top Image: 'The many', Victoria Square Night time
Bottom Image: 'The few', Victoria Square Day time
Containers' Terminology: Nested. A term used in less than truckload shipping in which materials are stacked so that one item goes inside another. Nested freight reduces the amount of space taken up and makes shipping more efficient as a result. © Myrto Tsilimpounidi and Zoe Manta 2015.

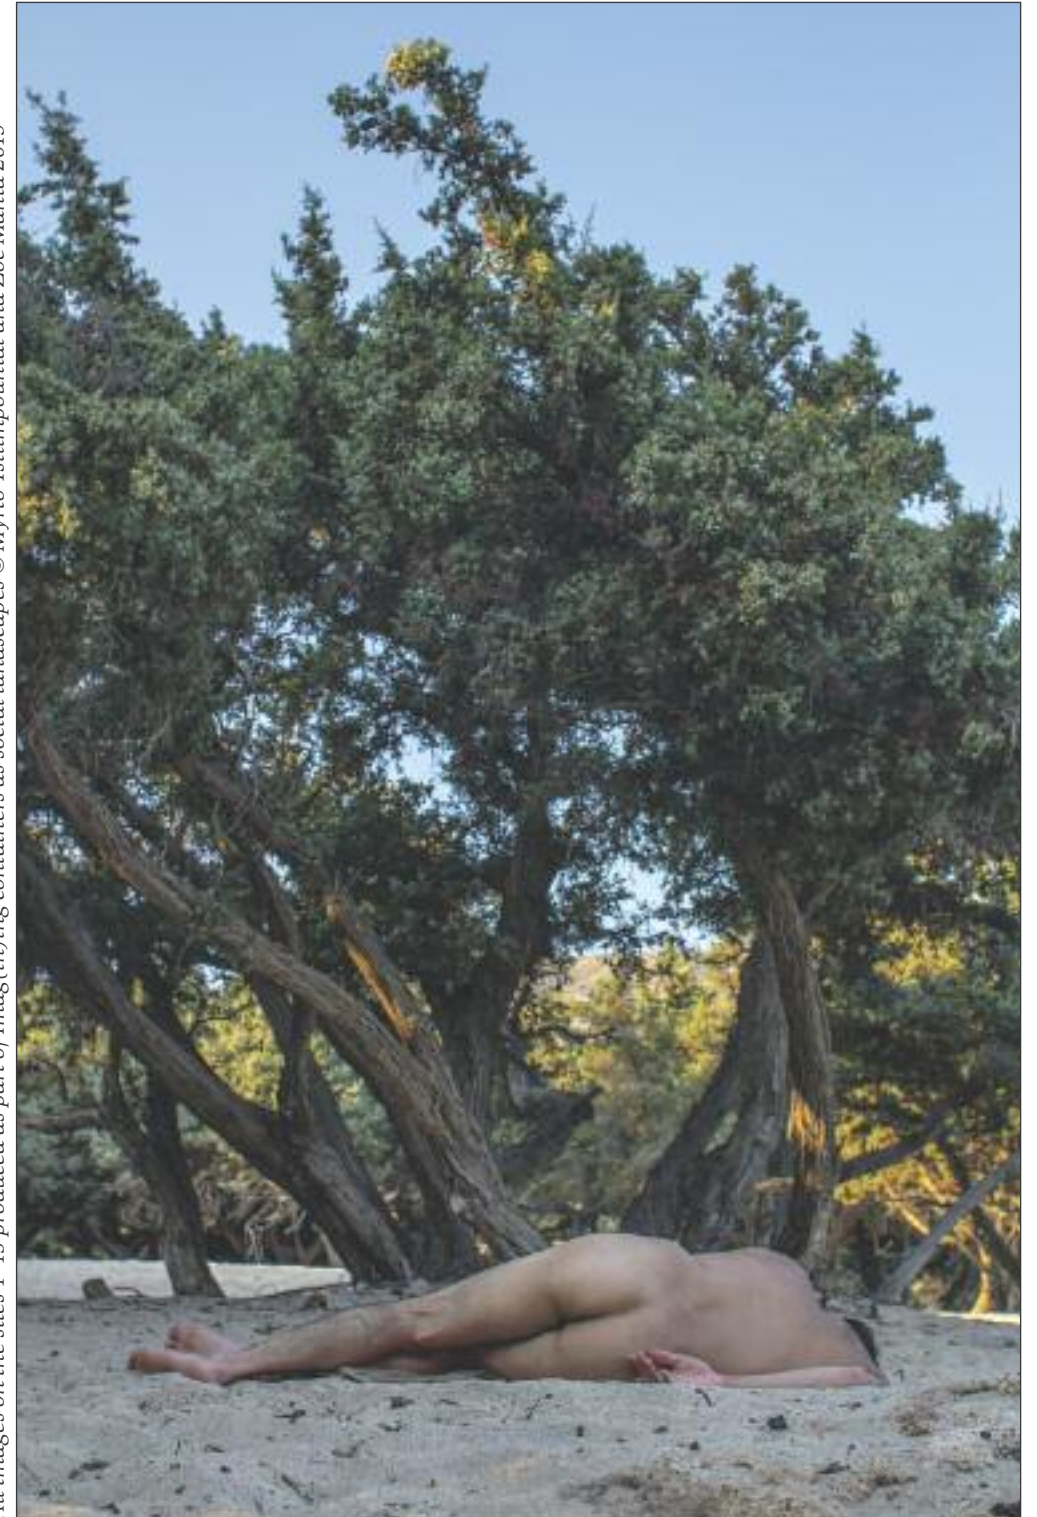

Top Image: 'Hailing Hitler', Victoria Square
Bottom Image: 'Illuminated Turd', city centre, Athens
Containers' Terminology: RAL Color Coding. RAL is a color matching system first established by Reichs-Ausschuss Für Lieferbedingungen und Gutesicherung (German Institute for Quality Assurance and Certification) in 1927. It is commonly used to select the color of the coating applied on shipping containers. © Myrto Tsilimpounidi and Zoe Manta 2015.

Top Image: 'Statue: Battle of humanity', Victoria Square
Bottom Image: 'Bureaucracy Pillars', city centre, Athens
Containers' Terminology: Bureau Veritas (B.V.). B.V., or Germanischer Lloyd, or classification society is an organization that certifies that containers are built in accordance with the specifications. B.V. issues equipment interchange receipts (EIR), documents established at the time a container arrives in or leaves from a port that will serve to document the transfer of responsibility. © Myrto Tsilimpounidi and Zoe Manta 2015.

Top Image: 'Bad News', Piraeus Port
Bottom Image: 'Hotel Tranquillity', city centre, Athens
Containers' Terminology: Concealed Loss. When the recipient of a package is not able to see damage to the item(s) until the package is opened. The damage was not visible at the time of delivery.
© Myrto Tsilimpounidi and Zoe Manta 2015.

All images on the sites 1-13 produced as part of Imag(in)ing containers as social landscapes © Myrto Tsilimpounidi and Zoe Manta 2015

'Untitled'. Containers' Terminology: Tare. Weight of an empty container. © Myrto Tsilimpounidi and Zoe Manta 2015.

Family meeting on the street (Photo by Markéta Hajská)

The Vlax Roma often say: "We like the life in UK, because nobody tells us we are black. Our kids are sometimes the whitest in their school classes." This school picture shows the multicultural roots of the inhabitants of the city of Leicester. (The Roma kid is in the middle of the first line, with a blue book.) (Photo by Markéta Hajská)

Vlax Roma family in front of the house (Photo by Markéta Hajská)

A music group of young Vlax Roma originally from Prešov in a recording studio (Photo by Markéta Hajská)

*Birthday celebration. The refreshment and branded alcohol should not be missing on the table
(Photo by Markéta Hajská)*

Preparation of Christmas table (Photo by Markéta Hajská)